“Ravenna freed us up to be able to talk to parents about more important topics, not about scheduling visits and tracking application status.”

Woodward Academy

“As a small-format independent school in the hyper-competitive NYC market, Northside had to be strategic in how we chose to spend not just our financial aid budget, but also our human capital. By utilizing the expert service and FA acumen of the SSS team, Northside was able to develop a best-fit model that allowed us to target fantastic students that otherwise wouldn’t have access to a private school education and free up our school leaders to do what they do best - develop the deep-seeded relationships with young people and their families that form the backbone of any great school community.”
